

Hot Spots in Our World 2008: Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies Lecture Series

Wednesday Evenings, 7 p.m., Walker-Ames Room (Room 225), Kane Hall, University of Washington Campus

February 20: "Race in the Spanish Caribbean," Ileana Rodriguez-Silva, Professor of Latin American Studies and History, sponsored by Latin American Studies and the Global Studies Center

March 5: "Democratic Elections and the Military in Pakistan and Thailand," Charles Keyes, Professor of Anthropology and International Studies and Ethan Casey, author of Alive and Well in Pakistan, sponsored by the Southeast Asian Studies and South Asian Studies Centers and the Global Studies Center

March 19: "Turkey: Between Secularism and Modernity," Resat Kasaba, Professor of International Studies, Jackson School of International Studies, sponsored by the Middle East Center

April 2: "Russia, the European Union and the U.S.: Soul Mates?," Darryl Johnson, American Ambassador, Retired, sponsored by the Herbert J. Ellison Center for Russian, East European and Central Asian Studies and the Center for West European Studies

April 16: "The China-Taiwan-U.S. Triangle," David Bachman, Associate Director and Professor, Jackson School of International Studies, sponsored by the East Asia Center and East Asia Resource Center

April 30: "Contemporary Indigenous Whaling in Canada and the U.S.: Issues Concerning the Nuu-chah-nulth and Makah People's Right to Whale," Charlotte Coté, Professor, American Indian Studies, Nuu-chah-nulth First Nation and Micah McCarty, Member, Makah Tribal Council, sponsored by the Canadian Studies Center

Hear experts from the Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies at the University of Washington and other leading institutions address major national and international policy issues. The lecture series is free and open to the public – registration is not necessary.

Directions/Bus/Parking: <http://www.washington.edu/commuterservices/>

Parking: Parking is available for $5.00 on campus after 4 p.m. (please note that if there is a major event on campus parking fees may be higher). Enter any U.W. entrance and request parking closest to Kane Hall.

For more information, call Canadian Studies at 206-221-6374.