

Canadian Studies Home Page | Jackson School of International Studies Home Page | Make a Gift

Canadian Studies Center Report

January 2016

Dear Friends & Colleagues,

Happy new year and welcome to Winter Quarter at the University of Washington! Fall Quarter 2015 included many events on Canada's role in the Arctic. These included an invited presentation at a conference in Iceland, a panel on the Arctic at the Jackson School's Emerging Frontiers Conference, an all day discussion on the Arctic Council funded by the Korean Maritime Institute (see two videos from the conference on the Founding Visionaries and Permanent Participants), a panel discussion with Congressman Larsen, UW Visiting Fulbright Chair activities, and affiliated faculty updates. Enjoy our news of these events. – Nadine & Vince

Center News

 Vince in Iceland Oct. 2015

Director Gallucci presents paper at Arctic conference in Iceland

Vince Gallucci, Director of the Center, gave an invited paper entitled, "A Glimpse of the Future of the Arctic: The Far East and an Evolving Arctic Council," at the Arctic Marine Resource Governance Conference which was held October 14-16th.

Read more ...

 Cyber Security meeting IPI site

New Frontiers in International Affairs: The Arctic, Space and Cybersecurity

On October 16th, the Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies's new International Policy Institute hosted an insightful discussion on the Arctic, space exploration and cybersecurity norms. Canadian Studies Center participants spoke in the first panel, "Changing Political and Economic Dynamics in the Arctic: Nation-States and Indigenous Permanent Participants."

Read more ..

 Heather Nicol

Fulbright Chair Nicol and Managing Director Fabbi featured as panelists in "One Arctic or Many?"

2015-16 UW Canada Fulbright Chair in Arctic Studies, Heather Nicol, and Managing Director of the Center, Nadine Fabbi, were featured as panelists in October 22nd's symposium hosted by the Center for Canadian-American Studies at Western Washington University. Event Flyer ...

 2015 Indigenous Studies Fellows

Area Studies & Indigenous Ways of Knowing Fellows symposium

In 2015-16 five UW graduate students were awarded fellowships thanks to a grant from the College of Arts & Science. The research projects challenged conventional concepts of area studies. The fellows presented their projects on November 6th. Read more ...

The Arctic Council at Twenty: Permanent Participants, Arctic Policy in Canada and the United States, and Stewardship

The Korean Maritime Institute funded a day-long dialogue hosted by the Center on November 20th to discuss the current status and future of the Arctic Council including some of the founding voices in the Arctic Council and heads of the Permanent Participant organizations. Read more ...

Managing Director Fabbi discusses Arctic foreign policy on panel with Congressman Larsen

In early December 2015, Managing Director Fabbi participated in a panel discussion by the World Affairs Council with Congressman Rick Larsen on the current situation in the Arctic and the role of Canada and the United States. Read more ...

Fulbright News

Fulbright Chair in Arctic Studies lectures at the School of Law's Global Mondays series

Heather Nicol, 2015-16 UW Canada Fulbright Visiting Chair in Arctic Studies, lectured on "Governing the North: The Arctic Council and The Arctic States" at the UW's School of Law's lecture series Global Mondays on November 9th. Fulbright bio ...

2014-15 Fulbright Chair in Arctic Studies collaborating with Google Maps

Joel Heath, UW's 2014-15 Canada Fulbright Visiting Chair in Arctic Studies, is now working with Google to bring the hamlet of Sanikiluaq in Hudson Bay in the Canadian Arctic to the world. Read more ...

Faculty News

Canadian Studies affiliated faculty, Fritz Wagner edits new book

Transforming Distressed Global Communities: Making Inclusive, Safe, Resilient, and Sustainable Cities, edited by Fritz Wagner, was just released fall 2015 and includes a chapter on the transformation of a mid-sized metropolitan area in Canada and the case of the Québec City region. Read more ...

Monick Keo, Newsletter Editor, Canadian Studies Center
For questions or comments, you may email canada@uw.edu.

This newsletter was sent by:

Canadian Studies Center, Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies
Box 353650, Seattle WA 98195
© University of Washington | Contact Us | Privacy Policy