CANDIAN STUDIES:
NEW DEVELOPMENTS AND ACTIVITIES

Winter quarter provided the Canadian Studies Center with an opportunity to focus on contemporary themes of direct relevance to a global society. In addition to scheduling a diversity of courses the Center organized a seminar, two film series and a workshop and participated in numerous other program and outreach activities.

In February the special topics Second Saturday Seminar, “Health Care Across the 49th Parallel: A Difference of Values,” was held. Frank and reflective comments were shared by the presenters and the audience. Presenters included Professor Jonathan Mayer, University of Washington; Assistant Professor Michael Hayes, Simon Fraser University; Mr. David Annis, Manager, British Columbia Health Association, Vancouver; and Terry Rogers, M.D., Senior Vice-President, Medical Affairs, King County Medical, Blue Shield.

That same month two Madrona Elementary School classes began their unit on Canada with a trip to the University of Washington for a mini-Canadian film series. Films shown included Who Are We?; Ten the Magic Number; “Cowboy Opera” as performed by the Canadian Brass, musical scores by the Innu rock band, Kashtin; and Roch Carrier’s childhood recollection, The Sweater.

March 21 the Canada Mosaic was held. Co-sponsored with the Washington Council for the Social Studies, the mosaic appealed to elementary and middle school teachers. Emphasis was placed on an eclectic array of portable topics which teachers may take from the workshop to their classroom. Mr. Ray McKeown addressed “The Way of the Pipe” and native Canadian games; Mr. Rick Mouldon discussed Pacific Rim curriculum packages and in a team-teaching situation Ms. Tarry Lindquist and Mr. Rick Mouldon directed a session concerning native Canadian literature; Ms. Oralee Kramer demonstrated ways of making and including Northwest native art in the classroom; Mr. Paul Desloover spoke about Québec culture; and Mr. Peter Shostak provided a visual recollection of Ukrainian immigration to Alberta and a means to teach about this occurrence.

Off campus the Center involved itself in many activities. Douglas Jackson travelled at the request of El Colegio de Mexico, Mexico City, to discuss Canada and its role in North America; Michael Bittner accepted an invitation to attend the National Study Canada Consortium meeting, Orlando; and the Center faculty and staff participated in lectures on the University of Washington campus, at Western Washington University and Shoreline Community College; responded to requests for interviews from CBC Radio, Vancouver, and Pacific Coast Television, Vancouver; hosted the executive board for the Canadian Society of the Northwest; co-organized a Mardi Gras gathering for the Canadian Society of the Northwest, and provided materials to support Horizon Airlines’ Grand Opening of its service to Calgary, Alberta.

Spring quarter on the verge of beginning, the Center’s plans include a co-sponsored symposia, conference, seminar and an all-Canadian buffet dinner at the Faculty Club.

NEW MATERIALS AVAILABLE FROM THE CANADIAN STUDIES CENTER

Didatech Software Limited distributes "Crosscountry Canada," a computer assisted learning program that enables grades 4-9 students to assume the role of a truck driver traversing Canada. Through interaction with the program students determine which commodities to pick up, where to deliver their load and which way is the most efficient and cost effective. Used on an IBM compatible machine the program makes use of a color monitor. For additional information telephone, Didatech Software at 1-800-665-0657 or check with a local educational software dealer.

- Entrex Software, Inc. markets "Quest for Canada" and "Nor'Westers to the Pacific" for grades 5-9. "Quest" sets the time of 1608 and students must choose either French or English expeditions. "Nor'Westers" allows students to assume the role of explorers, attempting to map a route to the Pacific. Both are available for Apple or IBM compatible machines. For additional information, telephone Entrex Software at (604) 727-2216.

"Crosscountry Canada," "Quest for Canada" and "Nor'Westers to the Pacific" are available to preview in the Canadian Studies Center Office and are regularly made available at teacher workshops on campus.

- "Identifying Values: Health Care Coverage" is a 2 day unit for elementary and middle school students to help them understand the different health care systems in Canada and the United States.

- "Compare and Contrast: Health Care Reform" is a 2 day unit for secondary students that acquaints them with the differing perspectives and the issues associated with health care in Canada and the United States.

WANTED

Five teachers and one librarian to participate in a summer K-12 discussion group, concerned with student literacy about Canada. Participants will represent different grade levels and include Canadian content in their teaching at present. Up to 25 hours will be spent working as a group to identify critical or essential themes that would represent the basis of a Canadian studies curriculum component -- one that would provide some assurance that a student is literate about Canada. Clock hours and materials will be provided to those participants selected. For more information contact Michael Bittner 543-6269.
