Canadian Studies: New Developments and Activities

Fall 1991 provided the Canadian Studies Center with the opportunity to review its accomplishments over the past year, establish goals for the new year and re-adjust long range plans for the future.

Among the activities related to this endeavor were the completion of the 1990-91 annual report and the 1992-93 continuation proposal. Both were submitted to the United States Department of Education.

In support of long-range plans the Center made considerable inroads at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The proposed enhancement of the undergraduate degree program received the approval of the Faculty Council on Academic Affairs. At the graduate level expansion of Canadian course offerings continued. Regular offerings are found in English, geography, health sciences, history, American Indian studies, anthropology, law and urban planning. Beginning spring 1992, new courses in forest resource management and public affairs will be offered.

Fall quarter the Center received posters in response to a publicized contest, "Symbols of Canada: A Visual Portrayal of the Essence of the Nation." Open to area high school students, each participant was asked to create a poster that would explain and depict Canada. Judged by three Program faculty, the Center awarded one first prize and four honorable mentions. The award winning poster was displayed during the poster sessions at the National Council for the Social Studies conference in Washington, D.C.

First prize was awarded for a watercolor on posterboard, submitted by Mr. Antonio del Rosario, Sammamish High School, Bellevue, WA. In his words "[t]he themes that I think define the essence of Canada are friendliness, unity, pride, truth and strength. I have shown friendliness and unity of Canada by having the beaver put his arm around the boy. The beaver, which is the national animal, is waving the Canadian flag showing the pride in his country. In the upper left hand corner of the poster I put trees to symbolize one of Canada's greater resources, the lumber industry. Just right of the trees [are] Canadian Mounties which symbolize truth, honor and justice in Canada. The skis [to] the far right... are there to show what I think is a very popular part of Canada. And finally, the Parliament building, the National Capitol, [was] used to show centralization and [the] core of strength that harness Canadian resources [and] keep Canada ordered."

Honorable mentions were awarded to Mr. Dereck Hale, Seattle, WA, who composed a collage; Ms. Ottilia Gaidos, Bellevue, WA, who presented an oil painting; Mr. Andy Tsao, Aberdeen, WA and Ms. Jill Barstow, Vancouver, WA, who, each, sent pencil sketches.

Other Center activities involved participation in numerous annual meetings and the co-sponsorship of events. Center personnel were in attendance for the Title VI Director's Meetings, the gathering of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States, and the National Council of the Social Studies Conference.

Through co-sponsorship the Center supported the Canadian Society of the Northwest's annual Thanksgiving Gala and the opening of the Burke Museum's exhibit, "Mungo Martin: A Slender Thread."

With a multitude of new activities planned for the new year the Center embraces 1992 with excitement and enthusiasm.
