The past two years have not been business-as-usual in the study abroad world. We had great success pivoting our Corbett Exchange Program to an online format last year, and hosted a virtual Killam Fellow over the summer. In-person exchanges were once again cancelled this fall, so we are continuing the virtual program with a fresh cohort of twelve excellent students that you can read more about below.

At the same time, we are so are pleased to announce a return to in-person study abroad! This January, we sent our first students in two years across the border to the University of British Columbia. Over the course of winter and spring quarters, we will welcome students from Vancouver, Halifax, Toronto, and Montréal to our campus.

Please read more about all of our exchange students below. We can't wait to share their experiences with you!

--Rich Watts, Nadine Fabbi, and Marion Ferguson

2021-2022 Killam Fellows

Gladys Lou

University of Toronto to UW. Gladys is an art and art history major, with minors in psychology and professional writing & communications. She joins us for spring quarter. More

Aline Maybank

University of Dalhousie to UW. Aline majors in medical sciences, and has an interest in climate change and global health. She joins us for winter quarter. More

Thomas Gareau Paquette

University of Montréal to UW. Thomas majors in political science and Big Data analysis, with a focus on data visualization. He joins us for spring quarter. More

2021-2022 Corbett Exchange Scholars

Eva Khosin

UW to University of British Columbia. Eva majors in global and regional studies, and also serves as the program assistant for the Canadian Studies Center. She is at UBC for winter and spring. More

Arshi Malhotra

University of British Columbia to UW. Arshi majors in biology. She joins us at the University of Washington for the winter and spring quarters. More

Veniace Thomas

UW to University of British Columbia. Veniace majors in sociology, and plans to pursue a legal career. She is at UBC for winter and spring. More
Corbett alum on the impact of virtual exchange

Sofia Ngieng (University of British Columbia, 2021) writes about how her time in the virtual exchange program has changed her academic trajectory. MORE

Reflecting on a virtual Killam Fellowship

While travel was suspended, Casey Wong (University of Alberta, 2021) spent the summer virtually attending classes at the UW through the Killam Fellowship. MORE

The Canadian Studies Center in the Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies at the University of Washington is a U.S. Department of Education designated National Resource Center on Canada. It is one of six NRCs in the Jackson School. Together with the Center for Canadian-American Studies at Western Washington University, it forms the Pacific Northwest NRC on Canada—one of just two NRCs on Canada in the nation. The NRC is funded by a U.S. Department of Education Title VI grant administered by the International and Foreign Language Education office in the Office of Postsecondary Education.