Human Rights Law in Culture and Practice

Through case studies, we will analyze the various complexities, including legal, social, economic, historical, and political, surrounding specific questions in human rights. In doing so, students will be introduced to relevant topical issues such as nation-state sovereignty, war crimes, ethnic cleansing, persecution and torture, "the disappeareds," refugees and asylum seekers, and venues for making legal claims. The notion of "culture" as an indicator of human rights variance will also be considered. Offered Jointly with ANTH 323.

w/CHID 380 (SLN: 11869)

TTh: 11:30-1:20 THO 125

This course is an introduction to the academic study of religion. There are vigorous debates as to the appropriate method and theory in the study of religion. We will explore what is at stake in these discussions and how we can join the conversation in an intelligent and informed fashion. The course gives the student a historical overview of the discussion of religion and provides a sense of where the academic study of religion is headed. We will look at religion using the tools of sociology, theology, anthropology and philosophy. The course will end with a review of new theories of religion that privilege neither the individual nor the culture but analyze social, cultural and psychological systems together-using an integrated approach as the best guarantor of understanding the phenomenon called religion

SLN: 17590 RELIG 400 A JEWISH MYSTICAL TRAD (5 Credits) M. JAFFEE

MW: 11:30-12:50 THO 202

The main educational goal of the course is to introduce students to some of the difficulties in defining the mystical dimension of religion in general. Secondly, it is to acquaint students with the history and symbolic languages of those streams in Judaism that are most usually regarded as examples of mysticism.
