ARCHITECTURE

SLN: 10282  ARCH 251 A  NON-WESTERN ARCH (3 Cr)  P. VIKRAMADITYA
TTh 12:30-1:50  GUG 220
This course is intended to introduce students to the relationship between architecture and culture—how they influence one another, and how through a better understanding of that relationship, we can play a hand in shaping a better built environment. The course will be arranged as a brief and highly selective historical survey of Non-Western (or Eastern) architecture. Examples will be drawn from all over the world, in the form of case-studies, with supplemental examples.
Modern Hebrew Literature and Jewish National Identity
Novels and short stories, from Africa, the Middle East, and South Asia. Discusses relationship of Western literary genres to an oral literary tradition, as well as issues like colonialism, gender relations, narrative technique, native and non-native languages.

SLN: 13609     HIST 290 AA QZ     F: 9:30-10:20     CDH 145
This is a survey course designed to give a historical understanding of social, cultural, and political developments in the Middle East in the 19th and 20th centuries. Within a general political framework, the course will cover social, economic, and intellectual currents of these two centuries, in order to provide a historical context to the events and realities of life in the region today. Topics to be covered include the decline of the Ottoman Empire, the rise of British and French colonialism, 20th century nationalist movements, and the origins of more recent developments, including the Arab-Israeli conflict, the resurgence of Islam, and American involvement in the region. Throughout the course we will examine how broader developments affected the lives of individuals and social groups, including (but not limited to) women, workers, peasants, and religious or ethnic minorities.

RE-THINKING COLONIALISM IN THE ARAB MIDDLE EAST
News about the Arab Middle East has come to occupy a significant place in the daily lives of Americans. Many have family members involved in America's military intervention in Iraq, others bemoan the rising price of oil from the region, and many remain fearful of attacks by Islamists in the wake of 9/11. Many Arabs, however, often view America's involvement in the region differently, placing it within a historical narrative of colonial rule that dates back as much as seven hundred years. In this course we will examine the history of colonialism in the Arab world, and consider how the experience of "foreign" rule has shaped the people, politics, institutions, and cultures of the region. Periods of intervention and rule by Ottoman Turks, Britain, France, Italy, Israel and the United States will be considered, and students will consider the experience of colonialism not only as historical, but as a factor in the political, social, and cultural shape of the Arab world in the present.

SLN: 13728     HISTAM 315 A     BYZANTINE EMPIRE (5 Cr)     J. WALKER

MTT: 1:30-2:50     RAI 121
This course explores the history of the Byzantine Empire between the sixth and fifteenth centuries C.E. It thus provides a sequel to HISTAM 314, The World of Late Antiquity. Students who complete all assignments for the course will gain a better understanding of many different aspects of Byzantine history and culture. They will also sharpen their skills of historical analysis.

JEWSH STUDIES

SLN: 17119     SISJE 490 A     (SPEC TOP) INTRODUCTION TO THE TALMUD (3 Cr)     GAMORAN
Offered w/HEBR 453 A (SLN: 13576)
TTh 11:30-12:50     MEB 251
No other work reflects the thought and practice of the Jewish people in late antiquity as does the Talmud. The Talmud is a book of law, but it is more. It is a book of logic and reason, of religion and ethics, of business and family relations. It deals with picayune matters and with profound issues.
This course will explore the role of autobiographical expressions in twentieth-century Hebrew literature and culture.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

SLN: 16942 RELIG 220A INTRO TO THE NEW TESTAMENT (5 Cr) M. WILLIAMS

MTWTh 10:30-11:20 KNE 210
QZ: Th 11:30-12:10 CMU B006
This course introduces the modern scholarly study of the New Testament and the socio-cultural milieu within the New Testament literature originated. Attention is given to significant Jewish and Greco-Roman traditions and institutions that were of importance in shaping the earliest Christian movements. The various writings in the New Testament are examined individually, with interest in such issues as: the relationship between the author and audience and the immediate historical context of the writing, if known; literary genre; intertextuality; key religious issues of concern in a given writing, and their relation to the diverse spectrum of developing early Christian thought, practice, and social formation.

SLN: 18472 RELIG 307 A RELIGION & WORLD POLITICS (5 Cr) A. GILL
Offered w/ POL S 307 (SLN 18471)

MW 1:30-3:20 JHN 075
Explores the intersection of religion and politics in various regions of the world, including the U.S., Europe, Middle East, Latin America, and other regions. Presents a historical perspective on religion alongside contemporary issues in religion, politics, and church-state relations. Offered: jointly with POL S 307.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

SLN: 17059 SIS 405 A POL ECON RELIG INST (5 Cr) J. WELLMAN

TTh 11:30-3:20 THO 135
RELIGION AND HUMAN SECURITY
This course is an advanced course in the study of religion and state issues. We will begin by investigating the history and archeology of the Western separation between political religion and the secular liberal state, investigating the consequences of this separation and its impact on the modern world, particularly as it relates to human security. Early on, our cases will focus on Christianity and Judaism; in the latter half of the course, on an analysis of Islam in the nations of Europe and the Middle East.

SLN: 17060 SIS 421 A NAT’L SECURITY & INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS (5 Cr) C. JONES

TTh 11:30-1:20 THO 125
SIS 421 studies how democracies since 1945 have linked security policies from the level of domestic politics to the level of alliance politics to the global level at which democracies confront non-democracies. Examines the applicability of 'realist international relations theory' and other conceptual approaches. Examines case studies, such as the evolution of the US-Japan security relationship and its impact on Japanese domestic politics; the impact of the US alliance system on the civil rights movement in the US; the relationship between the "norms" of the NATO alliance system and the NATO decisions to intervene in the ethno-nationalist wars of Yugoslavia; the relationship between the US military alliance system and non-proliferation regimes in Europe, East Asia, the zone encompassing the mid-east and south Asia; the domestic and alliance politics of the Bush Administration’s doctrine of pre-emption as applied to Iraq as a 'non-proliferation' policy and an 'anti-terrorism' policy.
Examine how WMD, in particular nuclear weapons, have transformed the international security situation since 1945. Readings will include theories of nuclear use and nuclear arms control, an overview of the Cold War nuclear arms race, and a choice of current WMD case studies (Iraq or Israel or Iran or North Korea) or special topics (export controls, clandestine sales of nuclear materials, border security etc). Guest speakers on selected topics. Short student papers plus 10-15-page case study.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

SLN: 16414 POL S 203 A INTRO INTERNATIONAL REL (5 Cr) J. MERCER
SLN: 16415 POL S 203 AA - QZ
Other QZ sessions available

MWF: 9:30-10:20 SMI 120
QZ: TTh 8:30-9:20 SMI 307

This course introduces students to the major theoretical approaches to international relations—Realism, Liberalism, and Marxism—and uses these approaches to address a variety of issues. For example, we will discuss the rise of the modern state system, the origins of WWI, the Cold War, the Gulf Wars, terrorism, genocide in Rwanda, free trade, North-South relations, the environment, and human rights. The principle aims of the course are to demonstrate how theory influences our explanations; to familiarize students with some important issues in international politics; and most important, to help students evaluate contemporary issues in international politics.

SLN 18471 POL S 307 A RELIGION & WORLD POLITICS (5 Cr) A. GILL
Offered w/RELIG 307 A (SLN: 18472)

MW 1:30-3:20 JHN 075
Explores the intersection of religion and politics in various regions of the world, including the U.S., Europe, Middle East, Latin America, and other regions. Presents a historical perspective on religion alongside contemporary issues in religion, politics, and church-state relations.

SLN: 16579 POL S 407 A INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT (5 Cr) J. MERCER
SLN: 16580 POL S 407 AA - QZ
Other QZ sessions available

TTh 9:30-10:50 MGH 389
QZ - WFDescription: War is a central feature of international politics. The course begins with a review of the development of modern warfare and its relationship to political, economic, and social factors. The focus of the course is on the causes of war. Is war inevitable given the structure of the international system, or can, for example, changes in beliefs or the spread of democracies temper aggressive appetites? We will examine these questions by focusing on World War I, World War II, and the two recent wars in the Gulf. The course concludes with a discussion of the ethics of war.

SLN: 18568 POL S 425 A WAR AND DETERRENCE (5 Cr) J. MERCER

TTh 1:30-3:20 SMI 313
This research seminar uses deterrence, the most influential theory in security studies, to address a range of policy issues. Past topics have included the Taiwan Straits, ethnic conflict, wars in Afghanistan and Iraq, humanitarian crises, and war crimes tribunals.
