Other Sections Available
TTh 1:30-3:20 DEN 216
F 12:30-1:20 DEN 211
Major developments in Islamic civilization from advent of Islam in seventh century to present. Islamic history, law, theology, and mysticism, as well as the politics, cultures, and literatures of the various Islamic societies. This course is organized around two methods of studying Islamic Civilization. The first is a broad historical/sociological overview of the peoples, cultures and historic evolution of Islamic society from the advent of Islam to the modern age. In this overview, we will examine Islamic societies from Malaysia to East Africa and those in between. The second method is case study oriented. In the second half of the course we will study two cases of Islamic social circumstance: one is women and Islam, the other is Islamic fundamentalism. This is a general introductory course and know previous knowledge of Islam is assumed.

SLN: 9134 SISME 490 A Spec Stud: Women & the Family in Middle East (3 Cr) Holmes-Eber
M 1:30-4:10 PAR 206
Veiled women, harems, belly dancers, wan faces gazing from behind locked bars--these are the images of Middle Eastern women that have obsessed Western writers, journalists and travelers to the Middle East for centuries. Yet as Graham-Browne observes, much of this imagery reflects Western fantasies and fears, rather than the reality, past or present, of women’s and men’s experiences in the Middle East. This class seeks to provide a more accurate picture of the roles men and women play in the Middle East, and to understand the way in which women’s and men’s identities are created, defined, renegotiated and expressed through, perhaps, the most central cultural institution in the Middle East: the family.

Other Sections available
MWThF 9:30-10:20 GUG 224
T 8:30-9:20 DEN 209
Everything you ever wanted to know about people: what we came from (not monkeys!); why we are shaped like we are; why gender and "racial" variations exist; why we live together in families; why there is nothing "natural" at all about love; and why we believe some of the things we do about this life and life (so most everyone hopes) after our earthly demise. Anthropology looks at things in the long-term (4 million years or so) and cross-culturally (other cultures with their own, distinctive ways of doing things).

ART HISTORY
SLN: 1441 ART H 309 B Intro to Southeast Asian Art (5) mrazek, j
$10 additional course fee required
MWF 1:30-2:50 ART 003
The history of Southeast Asian textiles is a history of the persistence of local aesthetics and the creative adaptation of foreign design patterns, aesthetics, techniques, and materials—especially Indian, Chinese, Middle-Eastern, and European—as well as cross-fertilization among the regions. This course will introduce students to the variety of Southeast Asian textiles, focusing on their local function, evaluation, uses, and experiences of textiles (on specific occasions, at specific times and places, etc.), as well as on how cultural diversity, cultural interaction, industrialization, and modernization are reflected in textiles.

w/POL S 432 YA/SLN: 7081
TTh 5:30-7:50 SAV 249
Course focuses on the revival since the mid-1970s of political Islam and what has come to be called "Islamic fundamentalism," especially in the Middle East. What are the nature and variety of political Islam today, and how does this resurgence or revival compare to those in the past? What are its causes, and what are its implications for the Islamic world as well as for the rest of the world, the U.S. included? (For example, is it a "threat" to us and our interests?) Finally, is political Islam compatible? Prerequisite: LING 451. Prerequisite: LING 451.
