Instructions for Application to a Jackson School Master's (M.A.I.S.) Program

In these guidelines you will find two terms that are used repeatedly. Non-Concurrent applicants are those who are applying only to Jackson School (JSIS) master's programs. Concurrent applicants are those who are also applying to a professional school.

Applicants must meet the basic admission requirements of the University of Washington Graduate School and the Jackson School program to which they are applying. While this principle applies most obviously to academic eligibility, it extends to procedural matters as well: applicants must give close attention to all filing instructions and meet all deadlines.

I. Jackson School Timeline

For Autumn Quarter 2017 admission, the application deadline is January 11, 2017. All complete applications which are submitted by the application due date will be reviewed. This deadline takes precedence over any general deadlines set by the Graduate School.

II. Test Scores: GRE, GMAT, and LSAT

A. JSIS applicants must submit official scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test. Exception: Those applying concurrently to the MBA may substitute the GMAT scores in some cases. Those applying concurrently to the JD program may substitute the LSAT scores in some cases. See Section III B. (2) for a summary of JSIS programs that allow GMAT or LSAT substitution for concurrent applicants. The University of Washington Institution Code for the GRE is 4854. No department code is needed.

If you have not taken the GRE, you should take the exam no later than December 31, 2015 in order for your scores to be considered with your application. The electronic report provided by the Educational Testing Service must reach the University of Washington by the application due date to be matched with the rest of your application.

B. Self-report your GRE or GMAT scores in your Graduate School application.

III. Submission Procedures

If you apply to more than one Jackson School master's program, submit a separate, complete application for each program.

A. Applying to a Jackson School Master's Program

1. Test Scores

Request that the Educational Testing Service (ETS) transmit your official GRE scores—and if required, TOEFL scores—to the University of Washington no later than the application deadline. IELTS scores may be submitted in lieu of TOEFL results.

2. Apply to the Graduate School

a) On-line Application for Admission to the Graduate School

Review instructions at: <https://www.grad.washington.edu/applForAdmiss/>, then click on "create a new applicant profile." In the "Report Prior Schools" section, list ALL post-secondary SCHOOLS attended, including community colleges, and including University of Washington.

International applicants should see: <http://www.grad.washington.edu/admissions/faq/international.shtml> for Graduate School requirements.

b) Designate providers of recommendations

In the "Information About This Recommendation" field in your Graduate School Application, choose "System should send email." The Graduate School will contact the recommender by email and ask her/him to submit a recommendation electronically. Applicants will be notified if the recommender declines. JSIS requires three recommendations. Although the on-line application process will accept up to four, JSIS applicants are urged to submit only three unless special considerations are involved. Recommendations must be in English.

- c) Upload unofficial transcripts from each college attended, including community colleges, and including University of Washington transcript, if you attend UW or previously attended UW. Create a file for each transcript by scanning or the electronic method provided by the issuing institution. PDF format is strongly preferred. You also may upload a Word or Rich Text Format file.

d) Statement of Purpose

Briefly describe your background, proposed focus of study, reasons for wanting to attend the Jackson School, and future goals. Also discuss your languages acquired and your level of proficiency for each (Novice, Intermediate, Advanced, Superior/Native Speaker).

e) Writing Sample

This should be an academic work, in English, that provides evidence of your research, writing, and analytical skills. The length is less important than the demonstration of these abilities, and your writing sample does not necessarily need to be thematically linked with what you are applying to study at the Jackson School.

f) Optional: Personal History Statement

Different from the Statement of Purpose (e). The intent of this optional statement is to give you an opportunity to let the admissions committee know about educational, cultural, or economic disadvantages you may have experienced.

g) Optional: Résumé or Curriculum Vitae

Upload as part of your on-line application if desired.

B. Concurrent Applicant Procedures

- 1) All concurrent degree applicants must submit a complete JSIS application (see section III. A., above) in addition to complying with the application procedures of the professional program to which you are applying. You should not assume that any of your application materials will be shared between departments. We cannot copy or send to other programs materials submitted to JSIS.

- 2) Test Scores: The Business School requires scores from the GMAT. Concurrent applicants to the MBA program and the general INTERNATIONAL STUDIES program, the JAPAN STUDIES program, the KOREA STUDIES program, or the RUSSIAN, EAST EUROPEAN AND CENTRAL ASIAN STUDIES program may substitute the GMAT for the GRE in the JSIS application. Other JSIS master's programs may allow this substitution on a case-by-case basis; check with the JSIS Office of Academic Services for more information. If this substitution is not approved, applicants must submit both the GRE and the GMAT to the University of Washington.

For those applying to the Jackson School concurrently with the Law School, the LSAT scores required by the School of Law may be substituted for GRE scores for those applying to the general INTERNATIONAL STUDIES program, the JAPAN STUDIES program, the KOREA STUDIES program, the RUSSIAN, EAST EUROPEAN AND CENTRAL ASIAN STUDIES program, or the SOUTH ASIAN STUDIES program. For other JSIS programs, applicants must submit both the GRE and the LSAT (self-reported in your Statement of Purpose).

IV. Application by Current UW Graduate Students

If you are a graduate student in another University of Washington department and wish to apply to the Jackson School either for a concurrent program or to transfer from your current department's program, you must reapply to the Graduate School and submit all application materials by the JSIS deadlines. Mention your concurrent department and status (currently a student/applying now for admission to the concurrent department).

V. Fellowship Applications

Committees reviewing fellowship applications and graduate applications are entirely separate, and materials submitted for one purpose cannot be used for the other. In addition, we cannot copy materials from one application to complete the other. For information on fellowships, see <http://jsis.washington.edu/advise/funding/> ("Funding Opportunities") and <http://jsis.washington.edu/advise/flas/> ("Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) Fellowships").

VI. Jackson School Timeline

We expect that all M.A.I.S. applicants who meet our deadline will receive admission decisions by late March. If you accept an offer of admission, you will be asked to respond by April 15. Applicants designated as alternates will be reconsidered only if space is available and if they notify us of their continued interest by April 15. You will be notified by email of the admission decision.

VII. If You Are Offered Admission

If you are offered admission to the Jackson School and choose to accept the offer, you will be required to send official, sealed transcripts issued from your undergraduate institution to the University of Washington Graduate School Education Management Services (GEMS).
