

TRUMP IN THE WORLD

INTERNATIONAL IMPLICATIONS OF THE TRUMP PRESIDENCY

A lecture series presented by the Jackson School of International Studies
Spring 2017 JSIS 478 I Wednesdays 4:30-6:00 pm Thomson Hall, Room 101

The election of Donald Trump is not only relevant domestically. It will shape and re-shape our world, from international affairs to other nation states' internal politics, potentially leading to realignments on a global scale.

In this 2 credit/noncredit lecture series, faculty of the Jackson School will explore the impact of the election in different parts of the world, building on their respective areas of expertise. We will engage with perspectives from Asia, Mexico, Europe, and Russia, as well as from scholars focusing on human rights, international cooperation, and migration.

Regular attendance is required if you are taking this class for credit. Interested students are also welcome to attend any or all of the talks without registering for the class.

-
- 3/29 Dan Chirot: The Global Context
-
- 4/5 Devin Naar: Authoritarian Trends from the Past to the Present
-
- 4/12 Anand Yang: Asia
-
- 4/19 Vanessa Freije: Mexico
-
- 4/26 Ernesto Penas (EU Commission) & Sabine Lang: Europe
-
- 5/3 Scott Radnitz: Russia
-
- 5/10 Angelina Godoy: Human Rights in Latin America
-
- 5/17 Reşat Kasaba: Turkey and Middle East
-
- 5/24 Kathie Friedman: Migration
-
- 5/31 Reşat Kasaba: Final discussion
-