

Re-imagining Health

What can we learn from Canada?

Fourth Annual Canadian Studies Graduate Student Symposium

8:00 AM - 3:00 PM, April 17, 2009
Room 305A, School of Social Work
University of Washington, Seattle

Presenters

Beth Curry (Oceanography), "Freshwater Transport through the Davis Strait between 2004-2005"

Nathalie Hamel (Aquatic and Fishery Sciences), "Bycatch and Beached Birds: Assessing Mortality Impacts in Coastal Net Fisheries Using Marine Bird Strandings in the Salish Sea"

Li Leung (Civil and Environmental Engineering), "FAST Commercial Vehicle Crossing Times between Western Canada and the United States"

Morna McEachern (Social Work), "'Children of a Common Mother:' Teen Pregnancy and Political Symbols in US and Canadian Sexual Health Education Guidelines"

David Pettinicchio (Sociology), "Ethnic Nationalism and Flight: Explaining Anglophone Out-Migration from Quebec, 1971-1981"

Mihyun Seol (Forest Resources), "Potential Market for Canadian Forest Product Industry: Trade between Canada and China"

Respondents

Michael Orsini, 2008-2009 Canada-US Fulbright Visiting Chair and Associate Professor, Department of Political Science, University of Ottawa

Jack Thompson, Senior Lecturer and Faculty, Northwest Center for Public Health Practice, Health Services, School of Public Health

Symposium Chair

Morna McEachern (Social Work)

The School of Social Work is located on the corner of NE 41st St and 15th Ave NE

Canadian Studies Center

Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies
University of Washington

