

ANJA WEHLER-SCHOECK

Jordan: How to Preserve the Oasis of Stability

May 8, 2017, 12:30-1:20 p.m.

Thomson Hall, Room 317

University of Washington-Seattle Campus

Free and open to the public.

ANJA WEHLER-SCHOECK, Resident Director, Amman Office, German Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung (FES). Prior to joining FES, Wehler-Schoeck's assignments led her to Tunisia, Jordan, and the United States. She is the author of a number of German and English publications on the Middle East and is a regular contributor to various media with her analyses on Jordan, Iraq, political Islam, and security policy.

Jordan has so far managed to stay what many call an "oasis of stability" in a region in turmoil. However, the most significant challenge for Jordan's stability currently comes from within the country, referring to both violent extremism carried out by single actors or cells as well as radicalization of parts of the population on a larger scale. This talk will outline the main challenges Jordan is facing and policy recommendations to address them, including German and American policy.

Sponsored by the Center for West European Studies, Middle East Center, Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies, University of Washington; and the Seattle Eric M. Warburg Chapter of the American Council on Germany. The Middle East Center's sponsorship of an event does not imply that the Center endorses the content of the event. For information contact: mecuw@uw.edu.

To request disability accommodation contact the Disability Services Office at least ten days in advance at: (206) 543-6450/V, (206) 543-6452/TTY, (206) 685-7264 (FAX), or dso@u.washington.edu.

