2021 Fall Workshop

Teaching Contemporary China through Documentary Film

SATURDAY, Nov 13th | 10-12pm PDT

TOPIC:

Film can be an extremely useful source for exploring many issues facing China today: environmental concerns, migrant labor, urban demolition/urban construction, China's changing rural landscape, the generation gap, etc. During this workshop, participants will learn strategies to teach their students about contemporary China through documentaries.

PRESENTER: Tese Neighbor

Seminar instructor of UW's East Asia Resource Center

REGISTRATION DEADLINE:

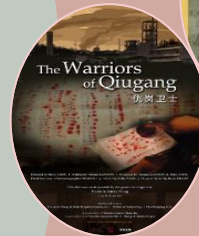

Wednesday November 10th

PREREQUISITE:

Participants will be asked to watch one of three pre-selected documentaries PRIOR to the workshop. During the workshop teachers will discuss the documentary they watched in small groups and formulate plans on how to use the documentary in their classroom. Documentary film information will be shared during registration.

NOTE:

CLTA-WA is dedicated to providing a fully engaged workshop in small size. If the morning session reaches full capacity, you will be able to attend the afternoon session from 1-3pm PDT.
